Course Description:

This course explores and critically interrogates the formulaic and innovative approaches to creating fantasy-based film genres and media, both in generating story-worlds and meeting industry 'product standards'. This course focuses on several genre types that follow a fantasy and/or Science Fiction impetus that includes the gothic, horror, utopia, dystopia, superheroes, fairy tales, folklore, mythology, magic, post-apocalyptic fiction, space operas, anime, magical realism and more. Combining theory with professional contexts, the course unpacks commercial expectations of fantasy genre conventions and the socio-cultural themes invested in these tropes. Case studies include film, television, games, comics, commercials in the form of screenplays, novels and storyboards alongside other templates and products.

Prerequisites and/or Co-requisites: MA Film: Science Fiction and Fantasy students only.

Aims and Objectives:

- To introduce key and evolving storytelling strategies of fantasy-based narratives.
- To examine closely multiple fantasy-based genres and sub-genre formulas, enabling students to master narrative tropes and devices appropriate to the specific fantasy mediums and/or media of their choice.
- To develop skillsets in academic analysis and 'product review' evaluation.
- To examine fantasy storytelling through the combination of theoretical interrogation and analysis of professional skillsets.

Programme Outcomes:

At the end of the course the student will have achieved the following programme outcomes:

A1, A2, A3, B1, B4, B6

A detailed list of the Programme Outcomes is found in the programme Specification.

Teaching Methodology:

The course will consist of weekly postgraduate seminars, which will follow the structure set out within the course syllabus and will serve a number of functions: seminars provide a framework of the course; address critically the relevant literature in specific areas, examine concepts, theories and case studies, and enable students to engage in group discussion and dialogue, and autonomous learning. Seminars rely on upon active student participation, mediated by the course instructor. By examining and discussing issues and problems in the seminar setting, students as junior research colleagues will be able to learn from each other and resolve questions that arise in the course of the lectures and readings. Seminars will only be useful to the extent that they are prepared for and participation in discussions and debates is an essential aspect of this. All students will be required to participate. Tutorial opportunities will also be available for research supervision and other academic support.
